Students in grades 6-12 can identify their interests, choose a career, and choose classes using an online tool called an individual learning plan (ILP). It is designed to help students reach out between their courses and their career goals through tools such as interest inventory, upgrade builder, and college entrance test preparation. IGP is a great starting point for important discussions about the future. Among the features: Careers Matching Students' Skills and Interests in Creating Educational Plans For Creation and Care is again tracking community service, work experience and extracurricular activities in exploring colleges and other opportunities through Career Cruising Planning Finance after high school students get a username and password from their school guidance counselor; parents can also join.
